

Is it possible to share a scanner over a network similarly to a printer?

It is not possible to share a scanner on a network as only one single user at a time can use a scanner. A scanner is not capable of queue management like a printer and cannot be used by several users at once.