

My speaker system features a G9 connector and I've noticed that my Fortissimo II has the same connector. Can the two be connected together?

The connector on the Fortissimo II does not follow the G9 pin out standard, and was designed to be used exclusively with the multi-connector supplied with the card.

Connecting your speakers to the card could possibly damage your components.